References

The Osteopathic Family Physician (OFP) requires references for all material derived from the work of others and to document statistical data.

References should be numbered consecutively with Arabic numerals according to their first mention in the text.

In text, figure legends, and table footnotes, references should appear directly after the information to which they correspond (not necessarily at the end of the sentence) and should be identified with superscript Arabic numerals.

All references that appear in the text should appear in the reference list at the end of the manuscript, and vice versa.

Referencing a Journal Article

When referencing a journal article, include the name(s) of the author(s) (if the article has more than 6 authors, list the first 3 authors, followed by "et al"), the complete title of the article, name of the journal (use the abbreviations listed in Index Medicus or in the PubMed database), year of publication, volume number, issue number, inclusive page numbers, and, if available, direct URLs or digital object indentifiers (DOIs) to open-access articles. Authors must provide photocopies of journal articles that are not accessible through URLs or DOIs upon request.

Referencing a Book

When referencing a book, include the name(s) of the author(s), chapter title (if appropriate), name(s) of the editor(s), book title, edition number, name and location of the publisher, year of publication, and page numbers (if referencing a chapter or specific section of the book). If various pages from a book are referenced throughout a manuscript, reference the specific page numbers within the text of the manuscript. For example, a statement that contains information from page 44 of reference 1 would appear as follows: According to the AMA Manual of Style, ibid and op cit should not be used in reference lists.

References to personal communication should be made within the text and not in the references list. Include the name, highest academic degree, form of communication (eg, oral, written), and the date of the correspondence. For example, "In a conversation with David M. Johnson, DO (September 2005)...."

Products and software should also be referenced within the text, listing the product name, the name of the company that produced the product, the version of the product (if applicable), and the company's location. For example, "InStat software suite (version 4.00; GraphPad Software Inc, San Diego, California)."

All authors are responsible for the accuracy and completeness of their reference citations and for the accuracy of reference attributions in text. Authors must also provide photocopies of any referenced materials upon request. In the instance that plagiarism is discovered, manuscripts will be automatically rejected, and authors may be barred from future submissions to the OFP.

Before submitting manuscripts to the OFP, authors must verify that all references appearing in the references section are numbered sequentially, appear in the text in that order, and are formatted according to the examples that follow. Manuscripts that do not conform to this format will be returned to the authors for correction before they are accepted for review by the OFP.

JOURNAL ABBREVIATIONS SOURCE

Journal names should be abbreviated according to Index Medicus journal abbreviations: http://www.nlm.nih.gov/tsd/serials/lji.html

List of serial title word abbreviations:
http://www.issn.org/2-22661-LTWA-online.php

CAS (Chemical Abstracts Service): http://www.cas.org/sent.html.

(Updated January 2014)